MEDIA ALERT/PHOTO OP: First Stage's production of MISS NELSON IS MISSING! visits Children's Hospital

- WHO: Members of the cast of First Stage's production of MISS NELSON IS MISSING!
- WHAT: A selection of musical numbers from MISS NELSON IS MISSING as part of a special performance for Children's Hospital patients. The performance is held for those young patients who are able to attend in person; it is also broadcast throughout all patient rooms within the hospital via closed-circuit for those who cannot attend.
- MISS NELSON IS MISSING!... is a musical adaptation of the children's book by Harry Allard and James Marshall, playing at First Stage through June 5.
- WHERE: Children's Hospital of Wisconsin
Media is asked to park in the circle drive at Children's Corporate Center at 999 N. 92nd St., Wauwatosa and walk to the front entrance of Children's Hospital where they will be escorted to the visit.
- WHEN: Wednesday, May 18 at 3:30 p.m.
- WHY: As part of a long-term partnership, First Stage has brought a portion of one of its productions to Children's Hospital of Wisconsin since 1995, in efforts to provide an enriching experience for children at the hospital who otherwise would not have the opportunity to attend a First Stage performance.
- CONTACT: First Stage: Erica Passey, communications manager at (414) 267-2931 or epassey@firststage.org
- Children's Hospital of Wisconsin: Stephanie Hungerford, APR, senior public relations and marketing specialist at (414) 266-4793 or shungerford@chw.org
